The Hippocratic Oath is a covenant to treat and heal everybody and everywhere without any discrimination. Many doctors and other health professionals face big risks when dealing with dangerous illnesses, testing new treatments on themselves, working in war times where their life is in danger, helping people through earthquakes, inondations, forest fires, hurricanes... They are everyday heroes and we have to honour them. We are grateful for their dedication.

The deep and long-term consequences of the current wars all over the world, with physical and mental trauma on individual and social levels, require solidarity, support and help to all, including the health professionals. As an artist, an art therapist and a human, I dedicate this art collage to all of them all over the world, to express my admiration and gratefulness. Thank you, dear Medics!
